(Note: The map options require Basic subscription). About Fantasy Grounds Fantasy Grounds is the most advanced management and design tool available to role-playing game publishers. It enables gamers and game masters to build their own custom fantasy worlds, and even connect their game sessions to existing 3D environments. What sets Fantasy Grounds apart from other game-maker programs is how easy it is to use. Design your own board layouts, populate them with pictures, fonts, and even your own custom interface graphics, then design the scenes you'll use to walk your players through your world. Add your own NPCs, monsters, weapons, gear, and spells to the board and you have an instant ready-to-run D&D or Pathfinder campaign. Design and Play in One Place Built into every Fantasy Grounds board are hundreds of features for players and game masters alike. Use a board map or in-game overlay to see your fantasy world, including terrain, terrain modifiers, NPC info, and encounters. Fight monsters or hunt for treasure on your own maps. Learn even more in-depth details about how the world functions in five draw-and-edit view modes. Create and Play Using Many Tools Fantasy Grounds is more than just a map program - it's a complete toolkit for designing and playing a game. Create and save your own unique game settings, art, campaign maps, and game objects and share them with your friends. Not only can you plan a tabletop RPG campaign, but you can also design monster encounters and combat environments for your players to explore. It's true, you can make a great RPG adventure in an image editor, but with Fantasy Grounds you can create and run an RPG adventure in one tool. And when you've finished your campaign, use FTP to export your maps and files directly to your gaming server without having to reload them into a new format or tool. Tailor Your Game to Your Needs When you run an RPG, no two games are the same. From choosing what race your players are to deciding which spells they cast, Fantasy Grounds is designed to help you tailor your game to your exact needs. The built-in system reports and alerts you to game problems before you play, so you don't have to worry about missing out on a campaign. And create
