What's new in The Player RPG:

Zotrix was once a division of the Solar Corporation before it was recalled to the station. The company's products are going to be most effective for travel at this point because of who we are dealing with. They are deemed very effective and powerful - both considering their damage and by the fact that they are super simple to use and adjust. I've listed below the Solar Power Supply cartridges and the Psy Hunter line because you'll want to know what they come with. I can also link to a rather large spreadsheet with the damage per container and everything for easy access. Base Stats HP/ATK Att/Def SP/BP SpA/SpD Speed Notes # Base +10 +1 +1 +2 +1 +15 This is the stats booster. They all have these stats so it doesn't really make sense to display these individually. 8 (+20 level) will boost all your stats. I'm going to assume that your base stats are maxed out and the same across all levels. Upgrade +1-1[01/12] +1-2 +2-0 +2-1 +2-3 This is the common upgrade. They all have one so it's not very much to write individually. The first upgrade is [01/12] because it always costs 1m/L and there are 12 levels of this. You can use these in every battle for no in game cost and they give +10/+1 and +1/+2 across everything except HP. Upgrade +2-3 +2-4 +2-5 +2-6 +2-7 This is the less common upgrade. I've only seen it on 1-7 containers. It gives +2/+3 across most things and -1/+3 across all regular and magic shields, +0/+4 across the max speed boosts, +3/+1 across the ~65000t and skyfire boosts, -0/+4 across the 5300m/s and the 5750000t, +0/+2 across the elemental attacks and the pokemon following a cool down period, and -0/+2 across the bone attacks. Upgrade +2-7 +3-0 +

The first Vienna-based TramLine was set up in 1897. It started in the very heart of the city and under the largest Viennese railway tunnel. With a linear route of 6.84 kilometres, the first line connects South of the city and ends in the north-west, providing a connection to the East Railway. The longest line, which is over 16 kilometres in length and makes up an important part of the network, starts at the Curtainwall, runs through all of the heart of the city to the West Railway and ends at the airport. In the year 2000, the low-floor tram took its maiden voyage. In the years to come, several lines have been added in the city and are used by hundreds of thousands of passengers every day. While the easy transfer of passengers between lines from the year 2000 had many advantages, the convenience and rapid travel properties of the modern tram also have lots of disadvantages for passengers. Trams are the fastest way of transportation in Vienna. The clear advantage of this short trip is the speed and its accessibility. However, the inconvenient noise and the dirty air are no longer acceptable to many. Improvement projects: The modernization of the Vienna tram network In the course of modernization work, there will be several innovations introduced into the tram system. Some of them, such as separating the single-track vehicle traffic and double track running in a flexible manner, are already being implemented. Flexibility in traffic conditions: The continuous extension of the network in the heart of the city and the optimization of the track configuration in the city center will allow a flexible traffic in the city center. This way, tram and double-tracked bus lines can be ran on one single track. Liability of tram operator: In addition to the newly arranged traffic in the city, the modernization of the Vienna tramway will also concern the liability. The motor of a tram will be operated by the tram company. Adaptation of infrastructure: In addition to the modernization, the tracks will also be adapted. The replacement of the tracks in the city center is aimed at providing safety in case of a disruption of the track. The modernization of the infrastructure requires the demolition of the urban infrastructure, which will take place in the city center. It is necessary that the construction does not disrupt the traffic and is compatible with the remit of the necessary traffic restrictions. Furthermore, changes in the soundscape will also be made. The modernization of the infrastructure in the city center means the addition of a
