Field of the Invention The invention relates to a process for inhibiting the corrosion of metal surfaces when in contact with a liquid in which the metal surface is exposed to the liquid. The invention also relates to corrosion inhibitors for inhibiting the corrosion of metal surfaces when in contact with a liquid in which the metal surface is exposed to the liquid. 2. Description of the Related Art A process in which a metal surface is treated with a nickel zinc alloy (typically a zinc chrome alloy) in a solution of borax is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 3,251,933. The process is also described in Processes Catalyzed by Inorganic Bronzes, p. 188, 1991. U.S. Pat. No. 4,563,398 discloses a process for depositing a zinc-iron alloy on the surface of a metal substrate comprising electroplating the metal substrate with a zinc-iron alloy. The patent also discloses the use of a salt solution comprising boric acid, nitric acid and an iron salt in the process.I work in the legal department of a large company, and I am generally well paid. I am also in a firm union. I have to fill out forms for every hour worked, and I have a form that I have to file every week. This means I spend 8-10 hours a week on paperwork. This is unavoidable, but it still leaves time for a lot of things. 79a2804d6b
